

A black leather armchair with a metal frame is shown in a close-up shot. The chair is positioned on a light-colored tiled floor with a herringbone pattern. The leather is dark and has a subtle texture. The metal frame is a simple, modern design. The background is slightly blurred, showing a bright light source, possibly a window, and some greenery.

At once ancient and modern, Helsinki embodies the elemental elegance of stone. Linear shapes echo the material's layered veining, making Helsinki beautifully suited to mid-century and classic modern interiors.
